American CyberSystems CEO Raj Sardana Named EY Entrepreneur of the Year

Regional honoree moves forward to compete for national award

ATLANTA, GEORGIA

American CyberSystems, Inc. (ACS Group) Chief Executive Officer Raj Sardana has been named EY's Entrepreneur of the Year® 2015 Southeast in the "Workplace Services" category. Award recipients were announced at a black tie gala at the Country Music Hall of Fame® and Museum in Nashville, Tennessee on June 24, 2015.

Now in its 29th year, this prestigious awards program recognizes entrepreneurs who demonstrate excellence and extraordinary success in such areas as innovation, financial performance and personal commitment to their businesses and communities. Eleven entrepreneurs in ten separate categories received the EY Entrepreneur of the Year 2015 Award for EY's Southeast Program. Sardana was honored in the "Workplace Services" category for his vision and success with ACS Group, a multinational provider of information technology solutions, staffing and workforce management services.

Sardana's professional versatility is evidenced by his ability to drive successful businesses in a multitude of industries. Early in his professional career, he served as president and CEO of Applied Communications, Inc., a multimedia and technology company in Atlanta, Georgia. He was also president and CEO of a multimillion dollar private equity group with a diverse and extensive investment portfolio in the real estate, retail, and service industries.

In 1998, Sardana chose a new path, this one into the world of technology consulting, staffing, and workforce management solutions. American CyberSystems, Inc., dba ACS Group, opened its doors during the dot com boom of the late 90s, and since that time Sardana has successfully advanced the company as the industry has evolved.

Today, with a revenue run rate of more than $650 million, ACS Group is an innovative and versatile company with a strong management team in place to continue its substantial growth. In 2014, ACS Group became Georgia's #1 Fastest Growing Company, and Staffing Industry Analysts distinguished ACS as a Top 25 U.S. Staffing Firm.

"I am honored and humbled by this recognition," said Sardana. "The accomplishments of ACS Group would not be possible without the strong partnership of our customers, the commitment and dedication of a talented team of employees, and the hard work of a passionate and driven management team. I am proud of what we have been able to accomplish to date and look forward to continuing to build on our success moving forward."
